WINE HOSTS BIO

Steven Kent Mirassou, Steven Kent Winery

As sixth generation to "America's oldest winemaking family," Steven Kent Mirassou began his wine career at age 13 on the bottling lines, forklifts and warehouses of the family's historic winery. At the ripe age of 32, he opened the Steven Kent Winery with one mission in mind: to become the preeminent producer of Cabernet Franc in the US.

"There is no finer way to make a living than to create something of Beauty that brings joy and deliciousness to people and that allows the winemaker to discover every day the esthetic heart at the center of that daily effort." – Steven Kent Mirassou.

Chuck Easley, La Rochelle Winery

Originally studying for a career in the medical field, Chuck Easley's chance encounter at Ridge Vineyards piqued his interest in wine. It led to a "temporary" harvest position in 1980, which has morphed into a 43-year career encompassing all aspects of the wine business. Chuck's approach to winemaking goes beyond the technical aspects; it's an art of storytelling and connection. He believes that "Great Wines" should elicit an emotional reaction. Chuck believes that the true magic of wine lies not just in its taste but in the memories created around a shared bottle.
